

STEVE STEVENS and Dr. Richard Spelzhaus, chairmen of the Centennial Spectacle.

ON THE CORNER OF NORTH ROSSER Street was located the old Vaccaro-Grobmyer Company specializing in lumber, related products and hay and grain. This photo was made by one of the city's leading photographers, J. L. Alley.

THE CROWLEY RIDGE INSTITUTE which housed the eleven grades of grammar and high schools until 1915. This school was replaced then by the new high school which is presently the Central Elementary building. The old Institute stood on the corner of Grant and Cleveland where the First Baptist Church is now.
