Deaths:

Death-19410101-Three burned, one fatally in a fire three miles west of here late yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Cluitt suffered critical burns as they attempted to rescue the child, his wife's half sister, Shirley Castleberry age 3, from the burning farm house. The condition of Mr. and Mrs. Cluitt who, with the child, were taken to the Laughrun Clinic remained critical today. The child died about an hour after she was taken to the clinic. Her body was removed to a funeral home in West Memphis. Shirley was visiting her half sister, Mrs. Cluitt. The Cluits, were in the dairy barn, and the child was in the house alone. Cotton pickers working in a field nearby and they heard an explosion and saw Mr. and Mrs. Cluitt rush from the barn into the burning house. The cause of the explosion is unknown. A neighbor brought the victims to the clinic. The home was completely destroyed, and was built about two months ago by Jess Aycock, for whom Mr. Cluitt, a former plumber, worked. Shirley's parents live on a farm near Hughes. The child is also survived by two sisters. Mr. and Mrs. Cluitt have no children. Not on Find A Grave.

Death-19410102-Charles O. (Cluitt) Clouette, victim of fire, dies at Laughrun clinic. The fire was the result of an explosion which, it was said today, to have occurred when Mrs. Cluitt was pouring coal oil upon a shouldering fire to rekindle it. The parents of Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Castleberry, live near Hughes. Mr. Cluitt was a native of Bono. He was in the Marines seven years. Previously his name had been spelled Clouette, but relatives said that since there was difficulty in the spelling, he used the simpler form, Cluitt. He had been a plumber here eight years but for the past two months, he had operated the Aycock dairy and livestock farm. Besides his wife, Miss Dorothy Castleberry whom he married of Marianna about seven years ago, he is survived by his parents, Mr.

and Mrs. J. N. Clouette, Route 2, Little Rock; two brothers, F. E. and Paul Clouette, both of Little Rock; and five sisters, Mrs. J. W. Fisher of Greenbriar, Mrs. B. F.
